SAHMRI acknowledges the Kaurna people as the Traditional Custodians of the Adelaide region, where our buildings are located.

We recognise the Kaurna peoples’ cultural, spiritual, physical and emotional connection with their land. We honour and pay our respects to Kaurna elders, both past and present, and all generations of Kaurna people, now and into the future.

We acknowledge the other Traditional Owners who live across South Australia.

Congratulations to the team at the South Australian Health & Medical Research Institute (SAHMRI) on the development of the Institute’s first Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP) for 2018 – 2020. The SAHMRI reconciliation journey commenced in July 2016, when the SAHMRI Board endorsed and committed to this way forward for the organisation.

The RAP is a terrific achievement, and involved a great deal of work by a dedicated committee. These members worked through many extensive steps, involving consultation with their peers within the organisation.

I would like to commend the committee and the wider SAHMRI community who provided feedback for this document for truly embodying and embracing SAHMRI’s vision, values and also the principles of the SA Aboriginal Health Research Accord in the production of this document.

From its inception, one of SAHMRI’s priorities has been to incorporate Aboriginal health research across all of its research and as a key platform of SAHMRI business - this is something that is at the heart of everything the team at SAHMRI does.

The development of a RAP highlights SAHMRI’s commitment to reconciliation and details the activities required to build positive relationships and provide equitable opportunities for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

Through our adoption of the RAP, SAHMRI will encourage all staff to participate in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander activities to create a greater understanding of our joint cultures, histories, successes and celebrations.

SAHMRI is committed to providing a range of opportunities to support the growth of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health research workforce through various activities, including student pathways, supporting students, traineeships and career pathways for our existing workforce. SAHMRI will also support Aboriginal owned and operated businesses within the organisation’s core activities.

There will be emphasis on developing strong relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and other Australians to improve the health and wellbeing of these communities within South Australia and Australia-wide. SAHMRI’s culture of respect, equity, diversity, inclusiveness and compassionate interactions will be reiterated.

Importantly, SAHMRI will work with other members of Adelaide BioMed City to strengthen relationships to support a sector-wide approach to reconciliation.

I am delighted that SAHMRI will move forward in such a positive direction.

Chairperson, SAHMRI Board
A MESSAGE FROM THE
SAHMRI Reconciliation Working Group

As the Co-Chairs of the inaugural South Australian Health & Medical Research Institute Reconciliation Action Working Committee, we are extremely pleased and excited to be launching our first Reconciliation Action Plan. Since the inception of the Institute in 2013 Aboriginal health has been considered a major priority of our work not only within our Aboriginal research unit (Wardliparingga) but across all of our themes within SAHMRI.

As a new and developing health and medical research institute, SAHMRI has the opportunity to develop a platform for Reconciliation that can have a far-reaching impact on our staff, research projects and in turn the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community. We can influence the way we work, as well as the interactions and potential outcomes of our key research partners both here in SA and across the country.

The development of our RAP provides us with guidance and strong pathways to embed Aboriginal communities into all aspects of our work. Our Aboriginal health theme has led the way in many aspects of our work, including strong community engagement, and it is now time to learn from and enhance these relationships across the ground-breaking research occurring within SAHMRI.

Our opportunity to positively impact on the lives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities through our RAP is inspiring and challenging and we look forward to the journey ahead.

Professor Alex Brown and Professor Steve Wesselingh
Co-Chairs of the SAHMRI Reconciliation Working Group

A MESSAGE FROM OUR Indigenous Collective

The RAP represents an ambitious commitment to support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff and students, and to improve the health and wellbeing of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community by doing research the right way.

In adopting a RAP, SAHMRI is committing itself to conducting research that is appropriate and meets the needs of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community, provides an environment that fosters current Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander researchers, and supports the next generation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander researchers.

SAHMRI Indigenous Collective commends SAHMRI for its leadership in adopting a RAP and trusts that its actions will inspire other institutions in the Adelaide BioMed City and Medical Research Institutes across Australia.

The RAP signifies SAHMRI’s continued commitment to meaningful and appropriate research that aims to provide sustainable outcomes to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

We look forward to working together with the SAHMRI community in achieving the actions of the RAP, as we begin SAHMRI’s Reconciliation journey.

SAHMRI’s Vision, Values and Accord Principles

OUR VISION
Everything we do is geared towards one vision: conducting inspired research that will lead to better health outcomes.

OUR ASPIRATIONS
Our research will:
• Deliver the right interventions, to the right people, at the right time in their lives to optimise health
• Be translational and deliver health outcomes with global impact to communities
• Provide a focus and leadership for health and medical research

OUR VALUES
We value:
• Excellence
• Innovation
• Courage
• Integrity
• Teamwork

OUR CULTURE
We are:
• Bold, driven, dynamic
• Persistent and focused
• Collaborative and enabling
• Embrace diversity, demand equity
• Friendly, fast, flexible and fun

South Australian Aboriginal Health Research Accord
The Accord aims to ensure that formal engagement with both communities and Aboriginal service providers is built in at the earliest development phase of research. Aboriginal communities and organisations should be involved in the priority setting, planning, design, implementation and evaluation of research. This may require a rethinking of how the research is to be conducted, to increase the focus on establishing and building relationships with Aboriginal communities and services.

A companion document, explaining the principles and their implementation is available, https://www.sahmriresearch.org/our-research/themes/aboriginal-health/research-list/south-australian-aboriginal-health-research-accord

OUR VISION FOR Reconciliation

SAHMRI acknowledges Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people as the first peoples of Australia and the longest continuous living culture in the world.

We recognise the injustices of the past, and that Aboriginal people do not experience the same equality of rights and life expectancy, as other Australians.

We respect the resilience of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in the face of adversity, and in the words of a respected Elder:

“Let’s not dwell on the past, but let’s acknowledge the past, so we can walk together in harmony into the future”

AUNTY JOSIE AGIUS*

On our pathway to Reconciliation our research will be directed by the historic and contemporary knowledge of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. We are committed to working in equal partnership with Aboriginal organisations, communities and individuals, building trust and respect, deepening our understanding of and respect for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and cultures.

SAHMRI will create opportunities for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in health and medical research. We will build a culturally responsive workforce across SAHMRI, and include ways of working which unite the physical, spiritual and emotional wellbeing of all people.

Together we will improve the health and wellbeing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities within South Australia and nationally. We will use the learnings from research focussed on Aboriginal populations to improve the health of all Australians.

SAHMRI will use the principles of the South Australian Aboriginal Health Research Accord as a foundation for reconciliation in everything we do and will monitor the progress and impact of our plan and revise our strategies accordingly.

SAHMRI is committed to achieving a combined vision of a reconciled Australia through working with SAHMRI partners.

The Wardliparingga Aboriginal Research Unit (WARU) is led by Professor Alex Brown at SAHMRI. Wardliparingga is a Kaurna term meaning “house river place”, and is also the name for the Milky Way reflected in the River Torrens alongside of which SAHMRI is located.

*Permission has been sought from the family to quote and use Aunty Josie’s name within this plan.
SAHMRI was incorporated in 2009 as South Australia’s first independent health and medical research institute. SAHMRI was established to improve the quality of life for all people, through ethical, innovative, world-class and ground-breaking health and medical research, which translates to improved health outcomes. SAHMRI’s research focuses on improving the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of some of the most challenging health issues that face our community. These are being addressed across all SAHMRI themes: Aboriginal Health, Cancer, Heart Health, Healthy Mothers, Babies and Children, Infection and Immunity, Mind and Brain, Nutrition and Metabolism, and SAHMRI’s support services. Since SAHMRI’s inception, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health has been considered a central priority woven across all research themes and activities.

SAHMRI’s Aboriginal Health theme (Wardliparingga) has a specific focus on overcoming the disparities in health status that exist between Aboriginal and non-Indigenous people, through a focus on better systems of management of chronic disease, translation of research knowledge into policy and practice, strengthening and supporting Aboriginal communities, health practitioners and researchers.

SAHMRI is unique amongst Australian health and medical research institutes in that its founding members include the Government of South Australia and the three major South Australian universities: the University of Adelaide, the University of South Australia and Flinders University. We collaborate with Aboriginal peak bodies, Aboriginal community-controlled health services, other health-related service providers and a range of non-government organisations.

SAHMRI aims to build the capacity of all research activity in SA, with the goal of creating a ‘culture of excellence’ in health and medical research across the state. SAHMRI currently employs 361 people who are involved in health and medical research, including 25 Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff. SAHMRI has onsite collaborations with another 300 staff through research affiliations with University of South Australia, University of Adelaide, Flinders University, Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation (CSIRO), Women’s and Children’s Local Health Network, Murdoch Children’s Research Institute and various rural and remote study locations.

While SAHMRI’s focus is on state and national health and medical research initiatives, we have many international collaborations.
OUR RAP

WHY WE DEVELOPED A RAP

From the outset SAHMRI’s vision has been to incorporate Aboriginal health research across all its themes and as a key platform of SAHMRI business. While SAHMRI is at the beginning of its journey, we recognise that Reconciliation provides the foundation for improving the health and wellbeing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. Reconciliation must influence and inform the culture of SAHMRI, and be embedded into all aspects of SAHMRI research.

As a leading health and medical research institute we are obligated to conduct our research in an ethical manner, especially in relation to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander related research.

Our commitment to Reconciliation must be shared. We must provide a workplace that is culturally safe, free from discrimination, enables open and honest discussion, educates and empowers individuals to reflect on their journey towards Reconciliation, explores areas of improvement and facilitates opportunities to extend our reach beyond all themes and our organisation.

SAHMRI has a commitment to providing opportunities for Aboriginal communities, organisations and individuals. This commitment extends to our own Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff. We must ensure staff are supported and empowered to embrace opportunities.

SAHMRI NEEDS TO:

- Create a safe environment for continuous learning of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples’ culture and knowledge, history of racism and its impacts on the individual and the wider community, in contemporary life and across the lifespan.
- Proactively form partnerships to improve cross-cultural relations.
- Educate staff on appropriate and acceptable behaviour and language in relation to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.
- Be free of discrimination with zero tolerance of racism.
- Empower non-Indigenous staff in sharing the load and responsibility of enacting all elements of the RAP.
- Build the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health research workforce.
- Strengthen our relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities.
- Ensure that we meet the highest ethical standards of conducting Aboriginal health research the right way by following the principles of the South Australian Aboriginal Health Research Accord and the National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC) National Statement.
- The SAHMRI Board and Executive Team, along with the RAP Working Group will champion the Reconciliation Action Plan across the Institute and encourage all staff to engage and participate in Reconciliation.
SAHMRI would like to thank all staff who have contributed to the development of the RAP:

- Professor Steve Wesselingh, Executive Director, SAHMRI, Theme Leader Infection and Immunity, RAP Committee Co-Chair
- Professor Alex Brown, Deputy Director, Theme Leader Wardliparingga Aboriginal Research Unit, RAP Committee Co-Chair
- Mr Doug Clinch, Project Officer, SA Aboriginal Chronic Disease Consortium, SA Academic Health Science and Translation Centre
- Ms Cassandra Glenn, Administration Assistant, Wardliparingga Aboriginal Research Unit
- Mr Stephen Harfield, Research Fellow, Wardliparingga Aboriginal Research Unit
- Ms Wendy Keech, Senior Translation Manager, SA Academic Health Science and Translation Centre
- Dr Tamara Leclercq, Research Manager, Leukaemia Research, Cancer Theme
- Ms Sharon Macgowan, Executive Assistant to the Executive Director, SAHMRI
- Ms Georgia McFarlane, Graduate HR Assistant, Human Resources
- Associate Professor Philippa Middleton, Principal Research Fellow Healthy Mothers and Babies Theme
- Ms Kim Morey, Manager, Knowledge Translation and Exchange, Wardliparingga Aboriginal Research Unit
- Dr Michael Musker, Senior Research Fellow, Mind & Brain Theme SAHMRI
- Mr Barry Porter, Chief Financial Officer and Company Secretary, SAHMRI
- Dr Susan Porter, Manager, Preclinical, Imaging & Research Laboratories (PIRL)
- Dr Peter Psaltis, Deputy Director Heart Health Theme

The SAHMRI RAP Committee and its Co-Chairs would like to sincerely thank Ms Caley Butler for her commitment to the RAP journey and Uncle Harold Bundamurra Stewart for his contribution to SAHMRI's Reconciliation journey and his unwavering commitment to improving the lives of both Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal people throughout his career.
RELATIONSHIPS

We will build strong relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and other Australians to improve the health and wellbeing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities within South Australia and nationally. This will be based on our commitment to two-way learning and our values of equity and diversity, including our culture of respect, inclusiveness and compassionate interactions. We will work with other members of the Adelaide Biomed City to strengthen relationships to support a sector-wide approach to reconciliation.

SAHMRI recognises Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures as the oldest continuous living culture on the planet. We respect Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples cultural, spiritual, physical and emotional connection with their land across the Australian continent. These connections are still as important to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in contemporary Australia. Through our RAP, SAHMRI will encourage all staff to participate in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander activities to create a greater understanding of our joint cultures, histories, successes and celebrations.

SAHMRI’s RAP Artwork

ARTWORK TITLE: Karrawirra Pari

The development of this Artwork reflects SAHMRI’s commitment to Reconciliation and the building of strong partnerships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, by providing equitable opportunities across the Institute.

The artwork, known as “Karrawirra Pari” meaning “redgum forest river”, it is also the name given to the river by the Kaurna People. The artwork also features “Wardliparingga”. It is a Kaurna term meaning “house river place”, and is also the name for the Milky Way reflected in the River Torrens, alongside of which SAHMRI is located.

The artwork is a reflection of the vibrant landscape along the River Torrens, a time when the Kaurna People lived in their natural state across the Adelaide plains. Over the years Karrawirra Pari has taken many forms but it is still a special place for the Kaurna People.

Today as one family we stand together on Kaurna Land, we acknowledge the traditional owners of country throughout Australia and their continuing connection to land, sea and community.

ARTIST: Allan Sumner

Born in 1975, Allan Sumner is a descendant of the Ngarrindjeri people who come from the lower Murray and the lakes of the Murray River along the Coorong of South Australia. He is also descendant of the Kaurna people from Adelaide, the plains region and the Yankunytjatjara people from Central Australia.

Allan takes a keen interest in his culture, particularly learning from his elders about the stories that have been passed down from generation to generation. Retracing ancient art forms, Allan is passionate about learning cultural stories and representing those stories through his contemporary pieces.

Allan mostly paints with acrylic applied onto canvas and also makes boomerangs, bark shields, didgeridoos, emu eggs and other cultural artefacts.
